—THE—

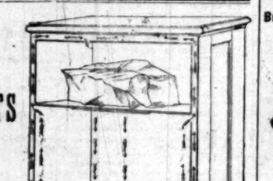
Iceberg Chief Refrigerators

—ARE THE—

Latest Achievement in Their Line.



Now, we have no doubt that hundreds of the old style Refrigerators in use give fair satisfaction to those who do not know of anything better, having bought what was usually the best at the time, but of course far short of date.

But you, who have a Refrigerator yet to buy, examine the novel and superior principles of the "Iceberg Chief," and whilst you are at it as well get the latest, best and cheapest in market. By the perfect ventilation and careful construction of all its parts, the "Iceberg Chief" retains a more even and lower temperature with a consumption of less ice and at the same time preserves its contents sweetened and for a longer period than any other refrigerator made.

FOURTH OF JULY, 1985.

GREAT DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS

By special arrangement we have received the following programme of events on the Fourth of July, ONE HUNDRED YEARS from to-day:

GRAND ROCKET RACE.

There will be a race by the boys of Los Angeles on the Patent Utopian Sky-Rocket. This firework has an exterior sent on which the rider mounts; and, at the signal from the starter, touches off the fuse. Each boy steers by means of the novel Air-Rudder. The contestants must take provisions, as they will eat dinner on the new comet called "Comet if you can." The purse offered for the quickest time in the improved combination known as the "EUREKALETNPHAVEITATANYCOST." This five-inch package contains a suit of clothing, hat, folding cane, trunk, etc., all worked by carbon.

TRANS ATLANTIC EXCURSION.

Round trip from San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego to England, France and Italy, the entire cost will be only SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS, owing to the great competition with the Inter-Oceanic Balloon route, the Rocket Rapid Transit Road and the Subterranean Tunnel line, the fare is reduced.

LINE OF TRAVEL.

The Electric Car will leave the Union Depot, Los Angeles, at 16 a. m., reaching Boston at 10:15; thence the train will cross the Atlantic Suspension Bridge, arriving in Liverpool in time for dinner. The cars stop in Italy, returning the same night. The moonlight home trip over the ocean will be superb.

P. T. BARNUM, Junior, will be in mid-air across the Atlantic and will exhibit his celebrated tame whales, eating from his hand off the boat. On the cars, boats and at each station will be seen large assortments of clothing, etc., direct from the ROSSER SQUARE DEALERS' cosmopolitan warehouses. After much solicitation PITCHER & GRAY have consented to establish a Branch Store on the Moon, near the Asteroids.

P. S.—Passengers, remember that the train goes no further than San Diego and Los Angeles on return, as it will hardly pay to continue to small places like San Francisco, etc.

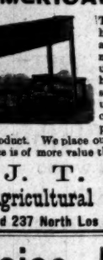
AMERICAN FRUIT EVAPORATOR!



The most practical and reliable Fruit Evaporator made. It gives unobstructed hot air currents ABOVE and BELOW all fruit, thus insuring evenness of drying and no spoiled fruit. Beware of infringements. THE AMERICAN is pre-eminently the fruit-raisers' machine. Its sizes grade from domestic to manufacturing wants. It makes the highest quality of work with ordinary care in handling. There is no need of making anything else. Though we approve a little sulphur, the AMERICAN is specially adapted for highest grade in unbleached work. It places fresh cut fruit first in highest and dryest heat; cures cut surfaces at once and keeps them dry, thereby setting and making permanent the color, and also thereby, as in broiling steaks, securing the highest quality in product. We place our experience in evaporating at the disposal of our customers. In some cases this gratuitous service is of more value than prices paid us for evaporators. Sold by

CATARRH!

Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption, together with the Eye, Ear and Heart, successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D.

M. C. P. S. O.

Graduate of Victoria College, Toronto, Ontario, and of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario; for three years Assistant Physician of the Lunatic Asylum, Cincinnati Consumption and Lung Institute; for fifteen years, and still, proprietor of the Detroit Throat and Lung Institute, also Lieutenant Physician in and for the State of Michigan, for four years, Past Proprietor of the Ontario Pulmonary Institute and Health Resort at Toronto, Ontario. Over 60,000 cases treated by us during the past nineteen years.

OZOENA.

Ozoena is the professional or technical name given to an advanced form of catarrh in which ulceration has eaten through the membranes lining of the nose to the cartilage of the bone. Any case of catarrh may end in ozoena, but the frequently recurring cases in those who are naturally scrofulous. The discharge takes place through the nostrils or through the throat, and is generally of a yellowish or greenish-yellow color, frequently tinged with blood, and almost always attended by an offensive smell. In the language of Dr. Wood, of Philadelphia, "the disease is one of the most obdurate and disagreeable which the physician has to encounter. It will cause the breath of the unfortunate sufferer as revolting as to drive him from society, and render him an object of distrust even to himself."

In some instances pieces of bone become separated and slough off, leaving deep, unhealthy ulcers, which secrete a blood matter, and are extremely difficult to heal.

After ozoena has continued some time the sense of smell becomes impaired and often lost.

Deafness is one of its most common consequences and results from its extension through the Eustachian tube to the internal ear.

Pains in the head and over the frontal sinuses, impairing memory, and even insanity frequently springs from its extension to the brain.

The greatest danger, however, because the most common, is that it will extend downward and affect the lungs. In most cases of pulmonary disease catarrh is present in some degree, and in many instances it causes a large share of the patient's discomfort.

Besides these grave consequences, all of which are liable to spring from scrofulous catarrh or ozoena, there are others which, if less dangerous, are decidedly unpleasant. It occasions great unhappiness to thousands of newly married by interfering them and preventing their settlement in life. An offensive running from the nose, with foul breath, is about as great a calamity as can befall young people. Every disease of this kind can be cured by our new system of practice.

CONSULTATION FREE.—Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for examination and examination, but if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address

The Times.

Office—Temple, Main and New High.

SENATOR JOHN SHERMAN is expected at his home, Mansfield, Ohio, June 25th, on his return from the West. He had a cordial reception wherever he went.

A PHILOSOPHER has said that "no one is thoroughly bad;" but then he knew nothing of American politics. Look at the Republicans.—[San Francisco Examiner.

And especially the Democrats.

THE people who have struggled so long and ardently for the introduction of silk culture in California are about to promote the enterprise in a practical way by opening in San Francisco a filature or school to teach reeling from the cocoon.

GAIL HAMILTON is lying in wait for Miss Cleveland's book to review it as soon as it appears. There is no reason why the late Presidential campaign should be fought over again by the female relations of the candidates.—[Alta California.

Is the Alta opposed to fun when it can be had so cheap?

THE procession of the Grand Army of the Republic in Portland, Maine, yesterday, comprised 25,000 veterans, and occupied three hours in marching past a given point. The Maine prohibition fanatics must weaken before such an army of men who have done service for the Republic.

THE removal of a postmaster in Arkansas is petitioned for and recommended, "because he is a bitter partisan, wherein he allows obscene people, lewd language and coon-fighting in the post-office."—[Washington dispatch.

Would the petitioners have the postmaster bar out the Democratic patrons of his office?

THE government is about to establish a salmon hatchery in Hot creek, Shasta county, with a propagating capacity of fifteen million fishes. The report does not state how often the fifteen-million hatch is to be turned out, but we judge that a million a minute would be about the thing. Please pass the fish.

WM. VOEGTLIN, the scenic painter, whose escapades in Los Angeles are well remembered, came to trial in San Francisco yesterday on the charge of bigamy. Mrs. Voegtlin No. 2 (nee Miss Lizzie Richie), whom Voegtlin courted and married in this city, is the complaining witness.

RECORDER SPITZER, of New York City, has sentenced a derelict builder named Buddensick to be imprisoned ten years and to pay a fine of $5,000. Buddensick constructed a tenement row which fell down of its own accord, and crushed a man to death. It is a good sign that men are held to an accountability for carelessness which destroys life, whether the carelessness be in driving a truck or building a house. Men will be careful if the law compels them to be so, just as they will be honest under proper restraint.

THE San Francisco Examiner contains the following practical hint: "While so much is being written about the probable visit of cholera to this country this summer, it is well to remember that an eminent medical authority has given a simple preventive of another and much more common contagion. A few handfuls of salt thrown daily into closets, and an occasional handful into wash-basins, goes far toward counteracting the noxious effects of the omnipresent sewer gas."

THE advantage which the United States will enjoy from having a wide-awake business man to represent her interests in China are enlarged upon in an interview with Congressman Townsend, published in our telegraphic report to day. The illustrious interviewed thinks we have just the man in Colonel Denby, the new minister. All that the Colonel has to do when he gets through airing himself and settles down to business is to induce China to send over a great deal of money and a very few men. That will fill the bill exactly, and make the new minister very popular.

THE Beaconsfield Cabinet that went out of office in April, 1880, was composed of the Earl of Beaconsfield, Earl Cairns, the Duke of Richmond, the Duke of Northumberland, Sir Stafford Northcote, Richard Assheton Cross, the Marquis of Salisbury, Sir Michael Edward Hicks Beach, Viscount Cranbrook, Frederick Arthur Stanley (youngest son of the Earl of Derby), William Henry Smith, Lord John James Robert Manners. Of these, Salisbury, Northcote, Hicks-Beach, William Henry Smith, Stanley, Asheton Cross, and Cranbrook go into the new Tory Cabinet. The Salisbury Cabinet of 1885 is the Beaconsfield Cabinet of 1879, with the loss of some old blood of high degree, and the injection of some new blood from the Churchill group.

Major Dane's Lecture.

Oakland Tribune.]

The "Great Naval Battles of the Rebellion," a subject with which the lecturer is perfectly familiar, having stood upon the quarter-deck in some of the most terrific battles that were fought upon American waters. The lecture was replete with graphic incidents and touching remembrances. The Major is one of the most eminent of forensic speakers, and draws the word-pictures with such accuracy and force that the hearer is carried unconsciously to the front of the battle and almost stands in line, as the scenes are again portrayed.

Now Map.

The TIMES is under obligations to Surveyor H. J. Stevenson for a copy of his new map of portions of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego counties, just issued. The map shows the extension of the California Southern Railway to Daggett and the line of the San Gabriel Valley road from Los Angeles to a junction with the former road. The new colony of Hesperia comes in for a place. It is a valuable work.

The Cheyenne Troubles.

DENVER, June 23.—The Tribune-Republican's Durango special says that Joe Dougherty, who was yesterday reported killed and his wife carried away captive by the Indians, have returned to their home unharmed. The report that six of a family of Indians were murdered by cowboys while asleep in their tent is confirmed; also the report of the murder by Indians of a man named Genthner, and his wife was dangerously wounded. His house and barns were burned. Agent Stollstenser has not yet returned from the scene of the trouble.

Grant's Improved Condition—What Dr. Douglass Thinks.

THE PLUCKY INVALID GETS TO WORK

He Dictates Some and Writes Some, and Declares That the Effort Does Not Exhaust Him.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 23.—Dr. Douglass was this morning asked to make a comparison of General Grant's condition now and on the day he started from New York. The Doctor said: "General Grant could not have lived in New York until this time, with the weather as it was when he left. He was sinking very rapidly there, and that was why we had to hasten the time of leaving, which was originally fixed for to-day. In making a comparison of the General's condition a week ago and now, there is a central fact that must always be considered, a fact that pains me deeply and all the time, and that is, we must stand by and watch the course of this illness with the consciousness of being unable to stay it. Starting from this fact, incidents of the daily change may be noted. You ask me if General Grant coughs as much now as then. I cannot tell definitely. Sometimes in taking food he coughs, and it might be thought it was from other causes. Is he stronger? To that I would say that he might this morning walk back and forth on the piazza with less fatigue than would have resulted one week ago. The air is cool, and the change has benefited him a great deal. In short, the General has been benefited as much as could have been expected by any change, and to-day he is stronger than when he came here."

DICTATES AND WRITES.

MOUNT MCGREGOR, June 23.—In the afternoon the General dictated for some time in a whisper to the stenographer. After sleeping half an hour he said, in reply to a question by Dr. Douglass that his throat did not feel tired as a result and that he did not believe the dictation had hurt him. He then spent some time in writing and after that sat before the fire in the cottage. When the family sat down to dinner the General again went to his room, and when Dr. Douglass left the cottage at six o'clock the General was again sleeping.

RAILROAD COMPETITION.

Struggle to Control the Trade of the Interior.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The Call this morning publishes the following: The freight war that has been carried on for some time by roads entering Arizona or New Mexico has at last come to an end. It originated in the desire of several roads to hold the trade of the Territories for the respective cities where they have their headquarters. The Southern Pacific desired to keep the trade of the Territories for this city. The roads entering Arizona and New Mexico from the east tried to make rates that would induce the merchants of those Territories to buy their goods at Kansas City or St. Louis. Several meetings of representatives of these lines have been held, but the trouble was never settled till their last meeting, which was held at St. Louis. There a schedule of rates was adopted, which went into effect yesterday and which shows a large reduction from the old schedule rates. The reduction on rates from San Francisco to Maricopa or various classes of freight will average about twenty per cent., and from San Francisco to Tucson and Benson about twenty-five per cent.

WANTS TO BE ANNEXED.

The Supposed Purport of a Mission from King Kalakaua.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser publishes the following: "We have been informed from reliable sources that ex-Minister Daggett has been intrusted with a commission to Washington by his Majesty on matters of importance connected with the affairs of this Kingdom."

In an interview on the above subject published in the Evening Post, Mr. Daggett, who arrived from Honolulu yesterday, said: "It is true I have been intrusted with a commission by King Kalakaua to the United States government, but I am not at liberty to state its object." It is ascertained from other sources that Daggett's secret mission is probably the opening of negotiations for the annexation of the Islands to the United States.

Youngblut's Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The trial of William Youglin, the well-known scenic painter, on a charge of bigamy, was called to-day. The complaining witness, Miss Rieber, of Los Angeles, who was married to Youglin on May 15, 1884, testified to having met the defendant in a restaurant and to having married him after two months' acquaintanceship. She further testified that, shortly afterwards, a letter came from his other wife in New York which apprised her of her situation, and she soon after took measures which led to his arrest.

Counsel for defense made a long argument to show that defendant should be permitted to prove that he married the second time under the mistaken idea that he had been formerly divorced and was at liberty to take another wife. The defense claimed that it could show that Youglin's first wife deserted him several times; that he followed and tried to persuade her to return to him; that each time when she left she instituted suits to sue for a divorce, and finally wrote him that they were divorced. Before that she had begun proceedings for divorce and Youglin. it would be claimed, had reason to believe that she was no longer his wife. Under that erroneous impression it was alleged that he had married. Judge Wilson said the question was one of much importance to the defendant that he would take time to consider it.

McCullough Still Demented.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Mail and Express says; John McCullough, the tragedian, wandered about the Sturtevant House in a demented way this morning. It was evident to the chief clerk and observer that he did not know what he was doing. Clerk Hitchcock kept his eye on him. The clerk had trouble with him Sunday afternoon. "He has threatened to kill me," said Mr. Hitchcock. "If he comes near me again, I'll hit him. I don't care if he is not responsible. If he is not, his friends ought to take care of him. Everybody in the house is tired of him, but the Lelands are reluctant to make any move in the matter."

Mr. Horace Leland said: "We must certainly do something soon. He is not capable of taking care of himself, and is liable at any moment to do injury to somebody. We have to watch him to keep him from setting fire to the house. He doesn't even know enough to eat his meals. We have telegraphed his wife and sister and expect them here this evening. If they do not take charge of him we will appeal to Captain Williams. John is a friend of ours, but we can't stand everything." Captain Conner, of the St. James Hotel, who has been McCullough's friend and business partner for years, says that he will not take the first step, and this seems to be the trouble with everybody. Captain Conner says he ought to be put in an asylum, but the only one who can do that is his wife.

A Deadly Plunge.

SAN JOSE, June 22.—Last night, at Gilroy Hot Springs, of which he was one of the proprietors, William Tennant, a pioneer of this county, died while taking a plunge bath.

Joseph Laycock, a native of Ohio, 43 years of age, committed suicide by taking a dose of strychnine at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Pfeiffer, this morning. He had made suicidal threats a number of times lately.

A Severe Sentence.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Charles A. Buddensick, the builder whose row of buildings on West Sixty-second street fell in a heap, April 14, and caused the death of Louis Walters, a framer, at work on the buildings, and who was recently convicted of manslaughter in the second degree, was to-day sentenced by Recorder Smyth to ten years imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5,000.

A New Daily for New York.

CINCINNATI, June 23.—John R. McLean, of the Enquirer of this city, and William Henry Hurlbert, formerly of the New York World, have associated themselves and purchased the plant of John Kelly's late organ, the defunct Star, of New York, and will speedily commence the publication, in that city, of a new daily.

CHINESE TRADE.

Congressman Townsend Coaching the New Minister to China.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—Congressman Townsend said to-day: "I was over in New York last week introducing Colonel Denby to a number of gentlemen who are deeply interested in developing commercial relations with China, and who have a great deal of information that will prove useful to our new minister to Pekin. I have taken a great interest in this matter of increasing our commerce with Asiatic and South American countries, and this is the result in part of having in New York a number of friends who understand the subject and are anxious to see something accomplished. The time is ripe for drawing this country and China close together. It is not necessary to give statistics. Everyone knows that China buys enormous quantities of manufactured goods of foreign nations, and that we have a very small part of this trade. We are China's nearest neighbor among the civilized nations and we have no political designs upon China, and she understands that we are the best friend that China has among the Western nations. A great deal can be accomplished by having a progressive man, such as Denby is, at Pekin. If the Chinese government can be brought to the point of encouraging railroad building (and I think she soon can be) it would be an enormous benefit to us. We can furnish all materials—rails, rolling stock and bridges, and all the engineers she needs for carrying on the work. There is a clause in the Burlingame treaty by which we obligate ourselves to furnish China with engineers whenever China is ready to embark on a system of internal improvement. That clause has been wholly inoperative hitherto, because since Burlingame's time we have been represented in China by broken-down political hacks. The Chinese mission is really the most important mission we have. The European legation we could dispense with without any trouble, but in China, Mexico and Central and South American states we not only need a legation, but we want the very best men we can get for ministers. Then, too, the Chinese army needs reorganizing and arming. The Chinese Government begins to realize that there is no European nation that can supply China with officers to organize and drill her army and with weapons for arming her soldiers as well as we can, and she would be perfectly safe in putting this work in our hands for we cannot possibly have any designs on the integrity of the Chinese Empire, while almost every European nation may be suspected of seeking to influence the politics of the country or get a slice of its territory. I think a man like Col. Denby can make these things clear to the Chinese Government, and although it will take time to effect them, I believe with proper representation at the Chinese Capital we may accomplish a great deal for the benefit of an export trade. I know that so far as general trade goes, not a great deal can be done until we can sell China the goods she wants cheaper than England, France and Germany can. In the same direction changes in our tariff laws will be needed to accomplish this, but our manufactures have nothing to fear from Chinese competition or the competition of nations south of us on our own continent, so far as those countries go. Therefore our manufacturing interests may be relied on to support such modifications in our tariff laws as may be found necessary. Without waiting for that, the right kind of an American Minister can do much to increase the friendly feeling of China with the United States and to stimulate the growth of our commercial relations. We have always been the friend of China, except perhaps in the passage of the Chinese Immigration Act, and the Government at Pekin is quite indifferent to that. That Government would much rather keep its subjects at home than have them come to this country.

Everybody in the house is tired of him, but the Lelands are reluctant to make any move in the matter."

Mr. Horace Leland said: "We must certainly do something soon. He is not capable of taking care of himself, and is liable at any moment to do injury to somebody. We have to watch him to keep him from setting fire to the house. He doesn't even know enough to eat his meals. We have telegraphed his wife and sister and expect them here this evening. If they do not take charge of him we will appeal to Captain Williams. John is a friend of ours, but we can't stand everything." Captain Conner, of the St. James Hotel, who has been McCullough's friend and business partner for years, says that he will not take the first step, and this seems to be the trouble with everybody. Captain Conner says he ought to be put in an asylum, but the only one who can do that is his wife.

A Deadly Plunge.

SAN JOSE, June 22.—Last night, at Gilroy Hot Springs, of which he was one of the proprietors, William Tennant, a pioneer of this county, died while taking a plunge bath.

Joseph Laycock, a native of Ohio, 43 years of age, committed suicide by taking a dose of strychnine at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Pfeiffer, this morning. He had made suicidal threats a number of times lately.

A Severe Sentence.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Charles A. Buddensick, the builder whose row of buildings on West Sixty-second street fell in a heap, April 14, and caused the death of Louis Walters, a framer, at work on the buildings, and who was recently convicted of manslaughter in the second degree, was to-day sentenced by Recorder Smyth to ten years imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5,000.

RAILROAD CONTROL.

Adams Before the Inter-State Commerce Committee.

WHAT HE THINKS CAN AND CAN'T BE DONE

The Danger of Over Competition—One Big Monopoly Would Result—Pooling the Only Salvation for Railroads.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

OMAHA, June 23.—The Select Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce finished its labors here this evening. Adams and party arrived this evening and appeared before the commission. Adams's remarks were lengthy and exhaustive. He referred the commission for his views on Congressional regulation to a pamphlet of his opinions, when, three years ago, he was arbitrator of the Joint Commission of the Railroad Association, and indorsed the commissioner system of Massachusetts. If pooling was prohibited and competition left to run to its issues in three years nearly all the old corporations would be in the hands of receivers and a consolidation of institutions would be formed which would give the nation one big corporation. This would be in independent lines what the Western Union is to smaller telegraph lines, and to prevent this pools are made under the active competition of the times. He thought that enactments of Congress could divert the railway corporations from the destiny to which they are being conducted by the influence of commercial laws. Legislation controlling transportation is of no service. The strongest and best managed roads must survive. He deprecated railway commissions in general as inoperative, but conceded that with time they might become effective. He said that business ingenuity devised too many schemes to circumvent restrictions against the rebate system, discriminating, etc, for a law so that end to prove of value. He did not believe in governmental interference, but thought that to realize a tithe of the Utopian schemes for reform and alleged amelioration of the relations between railways and the people would require bringing railways under one management, or converting them into an arm of the public service. Railways are public servants, dependent for their existence on friendly relations with the people, and sharing the fortunes of the communities they serve.

Mr. Adams pleaded the exhaustion of travel and his speech to escape an interview, but commented upon the pleasure and mental profit of his extended tour. He remains in Omaha two days, and spends altogether about two weeks in Nebraska and Kansas.

A SALVATION LUNATIC.

Commanded to Make a Human Sacrifice.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 23.—A member of the Salvation Army named David Williams created an uproar in his neighborhood this morning by running out of his house into the street with a butcher knife in one hand and a revolver in the other. People fled before him terror stricken. An old woman named Davis, who was unable to get out of his way, was severely stabbed, and a little girl playing on her parents' stoop was also severely and trampled on. The man was tried by his little grand-daughter by tying her to a bedpost and then hacking her with his knife. She was rescued by her mother before the murderer could carry out his threats. Williams has heretofore been a hard-working and industrious miner. He recently joined the Salvation Army last month. He says the Lord appeared to him last night and told him that to be a successful worker in God's cause he must make a human sacrifice. With that object in view he started out to kill some one. It took eight policemen to capture the lunatic who dashed the two hundred people surrounding him to touch him.

HACKED OFF A WHARF.

Close Call for Some Ladies at Martinez.

MARTINEZ, Cal., June 23.—As Miss Thomas and Miss Rasp, of this place, with a lady friend, were driving on Shirley & Misner's wharf, this morning, their horse became frightened at some object and commenced to back rapidly. When the hind wheels were over the edge two of the ladies jumped out. At this point the horse stopped and held the buggy with the wheels over the edge. A gentleman who happened by at the time, jumped at the horse's head, causing the animal to rear and fall backwards from the wharf into the soft mud. The third lady jumped out on the wharf just in time to save herself. The tide being low at the time, the horse was with difficulty rescued. Fortunately neither of the ladies were hurt.

Commencements at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., June 23.—The commencement events of Yale to-day were a meeting of alumni this morning for the election of two members of the corporation, and the anniversary exercises of the law department this afternoon. About four hundred were present at the alumni meeting. Judge Stanley Woodward, of the class of fifty-five, Wilkesbarre, Pa., presided. In addressing the meeting as Vice-President Hendricks, who was present, as a gentleman who had been twice elected to an office which he had filled but ordained by Secretary McCullough in his report to Congress last year, leaving the surplus at about $20,000,000, instead of $29,000,000.

IRREGULARITIES DISCOVERED.

The Post to-morrow will say that the investigation of the accounts of the Bureau of Equipment of the Navy Department now being carried on by the special commission detailed for that purpose by the Secretary of the Navy promises some revelations of an interesting nature. Already several irregularities have been discovered in the books, but they will not be published until the whole investigation is concluded, which will not be for another month. Several other bureaus have been looked into in a casual manner, but their books and methods have been postponed until the examination of the Equipment Bureau is finished.

THE G. A. R.

Twenty-five Thousand Men in the Procession.

PORTLAND, Me., June 23.—The second day of the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic is as beautiful a day as could be desired for the great procession. The streets through which the procession was to pass were crowded with people and gay with bunting. At 11 o'clock the signal gun for starting the procession was fired and the great line moved forward without confusion.

It had been calculated that it would require two hours for the procession to pass, but instead of that it took more than three hours. The most careful estimate of the number of men in line places the figures at 25,000, of which number 20,000 were in the uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Upon the Grand Stand were Commander-in-Chief Kountze and Generals Logan, Slocum, Hawkins, Beattie and Black, ex-Governor Fairchild, of Wisconsin, and Governor Charles Algar, and staff, of Michigan. After the end of the the procession had passed the Grand Stand the soldiers called loudly for General Logan, who was obliged to respond, briefly referring merely to the benefits of the G. A. R. gatherings. In the evening a reception was tendered to the Commander-in-Chief Kountze by a representative body at the City Hall.

The Interior Trade.

To-day's telegrams announce a reduction of twenty to twenty-five per cent. in freight rates from San Francisco to interior points in Arizona and New Mexico. We are not sure that this reduction benefits Los Angeles shippers directly, but it is interesting to note the fact as showing the operation of the law of competition, which has lately been invoked in behalf of the Pacific coast. The immediate cause of the reduction noted is the competition offered to these interior points by Eastern roads. Hitherto, Kansas City, with her live commercial methods, and her slight advantage in transit, has been walking away with all of this trade. But this is no new development. It was pointed out directly after the completion of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway into the Southwestern country. But the Southern Pacific Company, like Pharaoh of old, hardened its heart, and would not listen to any reductions that might enable California merchants to meet their Eastern competitors on an equal footing. Now that the big monopoly is itself a little pinched in a business way, it sees the necessity of standing by its patrons. It is one thing, however, to lose a trade and another to get it back. Now Mexico and Arizona have formed their commercial connections with Kansas City, Chicago and other Eastern cities, and they will not break those connectionsand go to San Francisco to do their trading unless they see a very decided advantage in the change. Then, too, the cutting of rates is a game that two roads can play at, and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé people are liable to see the Southern Pacific's reduction and "go one better."

San Francisco is not likely to recover the trade of the Southwest Territories. There are other disadvantages besides freight rates which are against her, and principal among these disadvantages is San Francisco's geographical position. Even the all-powerful Southern Pacific Company, with the best intentions in the world, cannot annihilate distance.

If there is or the Pacific Coast a natural commercial entrepot for Arizona and New Mexico, that point is either Los Angeles or San Diego. As between these two places, Los Angeles enjoys the advantage of greater size, greater natural resources, the more comprehensive railway system and lines of trade first established. Los Angeles is destined to be the metropolis, not only of Southern California, but of the great Southwest Territories. Ship and rail are here brought together. Whatever advantage there may be in foreign imports by water, that advantage we shall enjoy in the near future more than at present. As to manufactures, they will come with the development of raw materials. In the natural prodnctions of the country which here seek an outlet there is an immense trade ready at hand.

All of these advantages are fixed by nature—by the geographical position and the inherent resources which Los Angeles enjoys, and all efforts to turn away the fruits of these advantages will be like trying to stop the flow of a river. The more it is dammed up now, the greater will be the rush of waters by and by. The time is coming when Los Angeles, and Los Angeles only, can hold an even-handed competition with Kansas City in selling goods, wares and merchandise to the great Southwest interior.

Prohibition in Practice.

Gail Hamilton, in her article, "Prohibition in Practice," in the North American Review for July, is as slashing and as plain spoken as in her previous article. She takes the ground that the danger to temperance to-day is from the Prohibition party, and insists that there shall be a line sharply drawn between those who wish society to be self-governing and temperate and those who wish it to be the slave of low vice and intemperance. In this way she would mass and marshal all the forces of temperance against the temptations of the other class. The only remedy for drunkenness is character, and "the formation and development of character is woman's business." On this line is the road to success. But as to political action, Gail Hamilton says:

The one hope of an unrestricted liquor traffic is the Democratic party, and the one hope of the Democratic party is the Prohibition party. Before temperance as a public sentiment, as a moral principle, as a manly habit, the saloons must go down. As a political plank, as an election contest, as a constitutional amendment, temperance is a mere diversion from the main issue, is not feared, is indeed desired, by the Democratic party. There is not a State in which they do not hail it as a relief from impending immediate danger. Intemperance apprehends no harm to its craft from the Prohibition party, while abolitism is always endangered by the triumph of the Republican party. The Democratic party, with its principles outspoken and its record read of all men, has no chance before the people! In the South, where the Democratic party has entrenched itself by force, political prohibition is not suffered to move the wing or open the mouth or peep. In Georgia three-fourths of the counties enforce prohibition; in Georgia, of a total vote of 142,610, the prohibition candidate received 195. But in the North, where the Democratic party is weak, it cherishes prohibition like a nursing mother, and its caresses are returned with a coltsuive fondness. Straight as if winged from a Democratic bow the prohibition arrow flew to the States where the Democratic party had the least show for victory. Torpid in all the States where it could harm the Democratic party and where it could not vitally harm the Republican party, it was active in those States where even its small power could turn the tide against Republicans. What has been done may be done again, but it will be better understood. Prohibitionists may continue to be Democratic allies, but they will not be so well disguised Democrats.

This states the case strongly, truly and well. It goes to the core of the matter; and however unpalatable it may be to Prohibitionists with Republican antecedents, they must admit, in the light of the course pursued by their party in the late Presidential election, that there is abundant ground for the cutting strictures of the bright-witted and caustic Miss Dodge. She has uncovered the tactics of these effective allies of the Democratic party completely.

The Etching in the Art Loan Exhibition.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: On entering the room my attention was at once attracted by the only etching upon the walls, the "Christ before Pilate," of Munkacsy (owner, Mr. W. S. Maxwell). I was both glad and sorry to see it there—glad that the art was not wholly ignored, sorry that such a fine example should be lost amid so much color. The "Christ before Pilate" is an etching worthy of much more attention than I believe it received. I myself sat for an hour before it and watched the various visitors, catalogue in hand, examine the works of art in that part of the room. I noticed that but few in the large crowd that were there that evening even looked at it, and not one studied it closely. I felt sorry for the painter, the etcher and the owner. The painter, Mihaly Munkacsy, who was a pupil of Knaus, is one of the greatest painters Hungary has so far produced, and the "Christ before Pilate" is perhaps the best known of his works. A comparison of it with the picture by Rembrandt of the same subject at once vouches for the originality of Munkacsy's genius. The Pilate is totally different—the stately but superficial Roman of the more modern artist is the very opposite of the weak and senile Semitic of the more celebrated one. How admirably grouped are the figures in this famous work, how expressive the faces and the attitudes of each! Who can ever forget that Pharisee sitting upon the Savior's left hand? One can read his thoughts—"I thank the Lord that I am as other men are." How consistent throughout is that face and figure! Surely no other face would be in keeping with that figure, and no other figure with that face. What studies are to be found in this one picture! There, in the middle, is the imperturbable Roman soldier, keeping order. We can almost see that he, like cosmopolitan of his time, feels himself above these sectional questions. On the left is the representative of the mob, low-browed and brutal, with the cry of "Crucify him!" upon his lips. Misery apparently joined in by at least one other in the room. Away yonder, against the pillar, stands the only one in that clamoring crowd who has any sympathy for the despised Nazarene, the only woman in the picture. And then, the Master clothed in the central light of the painting. No words can describe the majesty of that figure.

May not the public hope for another view of this celebrated work? I have seen in Los Angeles some of the finest engravings to be found anywhere, except in the galleries of Europe. Could they not be got together some time for exhibition?

Yours respectfully,
W. K. VICKERY.

Harsh Words.

San Jose Mercury.]

Miss Elizabeth Cleveland, the mistress of the White House, appears, from all accounts, to be a lady of refinement and in every way fitted for the responsible duties which she has been called upon to assume. Therefore, the following criticism from a Democratic journal published in Illinois, seems harsh in the extreme:

"Miss Elizabeth Cleveland declares herself in favor of the most radical temperance—yes, of annihilation of all spirituous liquors—in a fearfully unintelligible communication over her own signature. Such a public performance on the part of this lady, particularly in her position as "the first lady of the land," is doubly objectionable. Mrs. Hayes, who has been justly and unsparingly criticised, has never acted more foolishly. She has at least refrained from writing such execrable slush as that perpetrated by Miss Cleveland. If President Cleveland permits the mistress of his household to repeat such manifestations of her sentiments, the people will be at a loss to know what Cleveland meant by his declaration against prohibition in his letter of acceptance. Of course it is a hard task to fight against the whims of an old bluestocking. Besides, it must be acknowledged that by his own personal habits, and by the hospitality offered by him in the White House, Mr. Cleveland gives the lie to the mutterings of his sister.

PRESS OPINIONS.

Philadelphia Times: Having conquered the unconquerable West, Secretary Bayard should now take up the work of turning the rascals out.

Boston Record: The Democratic camp-followers threaten to stop following the army if not allowed to have the spoils. What is an army without its bummers?

Boston Herald (Ind.): Ohio may be carried by the Republicans on local issues. Certainly there is nothing in the dominant Democracy of that State which should cause the people to wish any more of it.

Cleveland Leader and Herald: The Republicans of Ohio have once more taken the position that the liquor traffic must pay a part of the expenses it creates. This is sound doctrine, and the Bourbons are welcome to oppose it if they dare.

New York World: Once more as Democrats, we must protest against the imperialistic proclivity of the New York Sun, which now says that Mr. Tilden "is quite willing to leave to the chosen rulers of the country the duty of attending to their own proper functions."

Knoxville Journal: The Ohio Republicans have issued a ringing platform, and with a good, strong ticket in the field are ready for the fray. Foraker is a gallant leader, and with the party united and enthusiastic to follow, will conduct a campaign which will attract the attention of the whole country.

SMILES.

A little grammar is a dangerous thing.—"Johnny, be a good boy, and I will take you to the circus next year." "Take me now, pa; the circus is in the present tents."—Boston Budget.

"How did you get that awful cold?" "I suspect I got it sitting by the window." "You should be careful about sitting by an open window at this time of year." "Oh, the window wasn't open. It had just been washed, and it was so clear and transparent that it seemed just like sitting out of doors. I think that was how I probably caught cold."—Boston Transcript.

A gentleman of our acquaintance tells us the following good story, which goes to show that the average Austin boy has what Mrs. Partington would call a "judicious" mind. He, the boy, wanted to go in swimming. "But, my son," rejoined the anxious parent; "swimming is unhealthy. It was only this morning that you were complaining of a pain in your stomach." "That's so, pa; but I know how to swim on my back."—Texas Siftings.

"Shiver my timbers, topghgis!" exclimbed Secretary Whitney as he climbed aboard the United States frigate Omaha, off Bedloe's Island last Saturday. "Is this craft a Queen Anne cottage or a renaissance of a Nantucket wash-tub? Brace up her starboard bow and bring it around on her port stern. Lash her rudder to her main mizzen topmast, and if she must go down let her sink with all colors flying and her last shot in the locker!"—Chicago News.

WOMANLY BEAUTY.

How to Resist the Encroachments of Age.

From a Letter in the Pioneer Press.]

An eminent artist once said to me that any one, providing he took proper care of his person and dressed in harmony with himself, could make a pleasing expression. It was also a hobby with this same artist that the matter of personal appearance should be a part of every child's education; and he argued, with a good show of reason, that much less important things were taught with great care. This reminds me of an illustration of what it is possible to accomplish in the way of preserving a pleasing youthfulness of appearance. Meeting a young friend recently, I had scarcely asked after her health and assured her of my own well-being, when she exclaimed, "Have you seen that wonderful woman, Mrs. K., Lettie M.'s grandmother?" I admitted that I had not, and proceeded to inquire in what respect she was remarkable. "Why," said my young friend, "she is surely the youngest looking woman of her age now living. I am certain she must be very nearly 60, and she does not look a day over 28." I was glad to have an opportunity of meeting this lady a few days later and finding that her appearance confirmed my young friend's statement. I was curious as to how her youthfulness had been so wonderfully preserved, for what of us would mind growing old, providing only we did not look so? And I resolved upon a deep and subtle conducting of the conversation which should enable me to fathom the mystery. With all the adroitness at my command I was endeavoring to lead up imperceptibly, as it were, to ascertain whether this prolonged youthfulness was a freak of nature or the result of some course of action on the part of this young lady, a knowledge of which would deeply interest a large number of her sex. I fancied I was getting on famously when all my confidence in my ingenuity was put to rout by Mrs. K.'s coming to the seat beside me and exclaiming, with a merry laugh: "I know you want to ask me how I have managed to retain my youthful looks. Since Lottie has grown to be a woman I have become quite accustomed to being considered a phenomenon, and I shall be most happy to tell you what I know about it, if you care to hear." I drew a deep breath of relief and frankly acknowledged the curiosity which had led to my deep-laid but easily-discovered conversational scheme.

HOW IT WAS.

"To begin at the beginning," said Mrs. K., "when I was a young girl, not out of school, now nearly forty years ago, I visited a young friend in Kentucky, up in the blue grass region, where they raise those elegant horses. I was at the stable one morning, looking at the horses, when my friend's father said, showing me a beautiful satin-colored creature:

"'Isn't she a beauty?' She is no longer young, either, but she is as handsome as ever she was. If women would only take care of themselves as we take care of these horses, they would cheat age and add a good big per cent. to their happiness.'

"This chance remark made a deep impression on me, and caused me to realize that personality of youth was not only something worth preserving, but something which could, in a great degree, be preserved; and thus had the benefit of the ounce of prevention against the pound of cure, for I began then to care for myself physically, and to study in the best way to do this, precisely as I would any other subject which interested me nearly. I mastered anatomy, I observed the effect of certain things upon myself, and I gathered information and suggestions from all available sources, adopted all this to myself by careful observation of the effect. Soon certain habits were the result, which scarcely cost me a conscious act of volition. I really have devoted very little effort to the whole matter, not as much as most women devote to making up the semblance of youth when it is gone."

"Could you give me any of these rules which you have followed?" I anxiously inquired,

A FEW POINTERS.

"Certainly, I will gladly give you such as I have found suitable to myself. First of all, I have observed such laws of hygiene as I found were suited to making myself healthful. I use coffee in very moderate quantities and no tea at all. My observation leads me to believe that tea is very unwholesome for nine persons out of every ten, and that nothing will so soon and surely produce a brown and wrinkled skin. I eat light, nourishing, wholesome food, and really one soon learns to prefer it, and is so much more comfortable for the preference, and I will say here that I never allow myself to be uncomfortable if I can help it. Wrinkles, a red nose and hands, a disagreeable expression and a general derangement of the nervous system lurk in a tight shoe, a too closely drawn corset and in burdensome or insufficient clothing. I always rest my head when I am sitting, for it so prevents excessive weariness and a drawn look about the face. An aunt once called my attention to the fact that when I laughed I wrinkled my face in a very ugly way, and remarked that when I was old they would become set. I soon learned that I could correct this and laugh just as satisfactorily without the wrinkles. I also learned by this observation to control the muscles of my face, although the Delsarte method of muscle education which is now being so extensively taught was not known at that time.

"I never could endure a daily bath, as many people do, with the most beneficial results; but a weak solution of salt and water applied with the hand, not with a sponge or cloth, followed by friction with a harsh towel and flesh brush, will keep the skin fine and firm, and the face from growing coarse, dark and unsightly. I always wash my face, hands and teeth before retiring; have, even in the coldest weather, a draft of fresh air through my sleeping room, and, when it is possible, retire early. You know the beauty nap is the sleep between 9 and 11 o'clock. I have always cared for my hair in this way: I bathe and shampoo it once each week, and that it may not snarl I braid it in four or five small braids; then I rub the scalp thoroughly with a well beaten egg, wash it in water in which a small chesse cloth bag of bran has been soaked, rince well in clear water and wipe as dry as possible. My hair is as abundant as when I was a little girl, and, as you see, is not gray. Very few people have beautiful hands, but almost anyone can make hands beautiful, and a lotion composed of one ounce glycerine, one-half ounce pure water and twenty drops of carbolic acid, a few drops of which should be used each time the hands are washed, will, with proper care, produce this result. I came from a long-lived race, who have not aged early. Just how much I owe to this fact I cannot say, but I have now told you, as I said I would, all that I know about it." And I have "passed it along," as the suggestions it contains are, to say the least, in perfect harmony with common sense. HAL BOT.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Government bonds quiet; ¼ higher for threes and ½ lower for fours. Others unchanged.

Stocks opened this morning steady, and after yielding small fractions in consequence, it rallied ½@¾ per cent., reaching the highest prices of the day in the first hour. This was followed by a reaction, during which the lowest quotations of the day were made, all of which occurred, however, during the forenoon, and yet extreme fluctuations, with two or three exceptions, were within a range of less than 1 per cent. Before midday the market settled down to a dull and quiet mood. Prices were neither lower nor higher than in the morning, and it continued steady with very slight quotations throughout the whole afternoon, the market closing with very slight changes from midday quotations and steady at ruling figures.

THE BOSS DEMAGOGUE.

O'Donnell Speaks Again to a Smaller Crowd.

Blatherskite O'Donnell spoke again from the stand at the corner of the courthouse last night to a crowd of 600 or 700 persons at the outside. The encouragement this cheapest of demagogues has received here from some who should be in better business has given him boldness, and he had also warmed up his followers somewhat. He started off by giving Los Angeles the same sickening and overdone flattery that he deals out to every place he visits. Reeferring to it by design as "This large and beautiful city, God Almighty's city," he several times forgot himself and spoke as he thought—"this little town," "this little burg." He read the list of officers of the A. C. U., as follows: President, George L. Sterns; Secretary, L. Smith, "the best educated man in this little burg—I mean this large and beautiful city;" Treasurer, L. Eudel; Recording Secretary, Mr. Nolte. He said, "You have now in your organization 1,500 soldiers. Every one of them can pack a rifle and knows how to use it." He "had found three cases of leprosy in just walking through Chinatown," and tried to get up a cholera scare. He demanded that the Chinese be removed outside the corporate limits of the city, "as required by the organic law of the State." He read the section, and gave it a meaning it does not hint at. He said that "Chinatown is a nuisance, and you have a right to tear it down. Suppose you were to go right to Nigger Alley now, and lay it level with the ground, it would be within the law." He then qualified this incendiary suggestion by saying they would call the authorities remove Chinatown. The whole tenor and evident calculation of his speech was to incite violence; but warned by the movement to indict him for inciting arson in San José, he is careful now to throw in frequent exhortations to "obey the law"—advice which he nullifies by his very next sentence. He merely wishes, that if some misguided fool follows his teachings, he, the inspirer, may be able to prove that he advised against violence. The dupes go to San Quentin all the same. He endorsed Mayor Spence heartily, and reckoned him a man after his own heart. He wanted his followers to organize and get up petitions to Mayor and Council, and have the Chinese removed outside the city limits. "If this is done, I'll bet my life property would go up fifty per cent in a year, and your merchants make money instead of being bankrupt. In five years your city would have 80,000 people. Property in Eureka went up ten-fold in three months after the Chinese were driven out; and they won't return under penalty of death [cheers.]" He was getting things in a muss, and then San Francisco, "and by and by, when these cussed pirates [British vessels] come in with the cussed d—d coolies, we'll hang the pirates to the yard-arm. That wouldn't be going outside the law." He wished all the people had leprosy who have their washing done by Chinese, etc., ad nauseam. Three or four bummers in the crowd who probably never paid for a paper in their lives were very anxious to "boycott the Times," and O'Donnell bade them all do it and not forget it. He was very anxious to make it appear that "those who stabbed him stabbed the cause," after a hour and a half of rot similar to the above, he called for a torchlight procession, and a crowd of men and boys marched around via Spring, Main and Plaza, and countermarched back to the stand. It looked for a few minutes as if there would be trouble, as the incendiary led his dupes within one hundred feet of Chinatown. A gang of young hoodlums with him armed themselves with sticks and stones; and one Chinaman standing quietly in front of the Merced theatre was actually pelted. The "procession" numbered by actual count 317 men and kids, a good many of the former being intoxicated. Returning to the stand, O'Donnell thanked the crowd and dismissed them. He promised to return to San Francisco today, for which all good citizens will be profoundly grateful.

Fruit Crops and Dairying.

A. W. Porter, of the firm of Porter Bros. & Co., informed a TIMES reporter yesterday that the fruit trade has kept up remarkably well this year, although at present there is a lull, owing to the Indian troubles in Arizona. The orange crop is nearly exhausted, and in a week or two this fruit will be out of the market. The apricot crop is heavy all over Southern California; the peach crop light. Northern apples have been shipped down here by the carload during the past two weeks, but in a few days the Los Angeles apple growers will be able to supply the home demand. One point Mr. Porter desires to call the attention of the farmers of this county to, and it is one in which we can take little pride. For the past three months the dairymen of Cayucos, San Luis Obispo county, have received $1.50 per hundred pounds for every pound from this city for butter supplied this market. This is a terrible drain and one for which there seems to be no excuse. The dairy lands in the vicinity of Florence, Compton, Downey, Westminster and Santa Ana are unequaled in the State, and it is singular that so little attention is paid to butter-making. The dairymen of Cayucos are all getting rich, and are able to ship butter at a profit to Los Angeles, after paying heavy freight bills, simply because there is scarcely any butter made here. The papers throughout the county should discuss this important matter and endeavor to awaken farmers to the necessity of keeping at least a portion of this money at home.

He Will Take the Contract.

Col. J. Drew Gay came down from his ynoca plantation Monday to learn the news from across the water. He is cousin to the Marquis of Salisbury, who is about to assume the reins of government in England, and should there be a war with Russia Col. Gay fully expects to receive a commission in the British army commensurate with his experience as an officer. Col. Gay is a noted traveler and correspondent, and has won fame as a soldier. Two years ago the King of Siam invited him to organize a force of men for the purpose of "regulating" one of his insubordinate governments, and he was so successful that the King granted him a valuable tract of land in return for his services. Col. Gay expresses great surprise that the powerful United States government should permit a few ragged Indians to disturb the peace of the nation so long. Col. Gay offers to take the contract of "regulating" the whole Apache tribe if the government will furnish him certain concessions. He will employ only white men and at his own expense. When the whole Indian question can be settled so easily and quickly, no excuse exists for the continued presence of the troops on the frontier; in fact, the United States Army looms up as a preposterous superfluity.

The Medical College.

The catalogue of the University of Southern California just issued shows the Medical College started this year in connection with that institution to be in a most satisfactory state. A cut of the premises on Aliso street occupied by the college is given. The new "hand-me-down" badge which is to decorate the manly bosoms of all Los Angeles Chiefs of Police, present and to come, was exhibited by Mr. Velsir in yesterday's abortive Council meeting. It is of silver, and a pretty piece of work.

A gentleman gave a stereopticon entertainment at the Baptist Church last night for the benefit of the Sunday school. He showed fifty views of the Congo country, illustrating the discourses of Livingstone, Cameron and Stanley. To-night the arctic regions will be illustrated in the same manner.

Joseph Valentine asked Officer Berry last night—Berry being in citizen's dress—for a second-hand shop where he could sell a fine coat and vest. "Yes," said Berry, "I'm going right to one." And the confiding Joseph walked with the officer to the police station, where he was locked up for petit larceny.

Food for Thought.

On the 30th of June the subscribers to the "O. W. Childs 200-lot tract" meet for the distribution of lots without premium. The subscription price is $600 in monthly installments. The greater number of these lots are worth from $1000 to $2500 each. The poorest lot in the tract is fully worth the subscription price. A few lots remain, but from the demand the past few days there will not be a lot unsold on the 30th. Mr. O. W. Childs will give all information on this subject at his office, No. 1, Opera House Building.—[Adv.

Council.

Council tried hard to meet yesterday, and kept up the agony till 3:30. Messrs. Hamilton, Velsir, French, Lambie and Holbrook were on hand. Clerk Robinson had hobbled over. At 2:45 the police were sent out to collar a quorum, but in vain. Messrs. McGarry and Bullis meandered in, but there the matter stuck, and finally, in despair, the meeting adjourned to 2 p. m. to-day, when it is probable they will have no better success.

Lincoln Park.

In another column that desirable property known as Lincoln Park is advertised by Messrs. McLean & Wilson. Lincoln Park is located between Los Angeles and Pasadena, directly on the line of the San Gabriel Valley railroad. The lots are offered at very reasonable prices and on favorable terms.

Secure It.

Of the few remaining lots in the Childs tract secure one this week.

A FLORIDA EDITOR.

He has Come to Inspect and Write Up Southern California.

John A. McDonald, editor of the Lake Region, a newspaper published at Eustace, Florida, is visiting Los Angeles. Mr. McDonald says when he heard of the award of the first premium to the California oranges at New Orleans, like many other Floridians, he was somewhat alarmed, and immediately determined to come out and see what kind of a country Florida has to compete with. Mr. McDonald has not been here long, but he intimates strongly that he shall not view our section through rose-colored spectacles. He states that he shall form his own impressions, write them out, put them in type, and then submit them to Los Angeles editors, real estate agents and other interested parties here. By carrying out this novel programme he thinks he will be able to get a correct idea of the country and be prepared to make a statement of the facts to his Eastern readers, without doing us any injustice.

Mr. McDonald states that Florida growers received $2 a box for their oranges this year and are well satisfied. The season with them commences about the middle of October and continues until the middle of April. Successful experiments have been made in shipping Florida oranges to Europe, and Mr. McDonald thinks quite a market will be developed in Europe for American tropical fruits. He is surprised to find that Southern California orange growers prune their trees. He says the knife is never applied to the Florida orange tree, and he believes the effect of pruning is very injurious. He says 3,000,000 acres in Southern Florida are adapted to tropical and semi-tropical fruits, and he believes all this land will be speedily brought into cultivation.

On the Beach at Santa Cruz.

[Blanche Bramsforte in the Sentinel.]

"We are in the midst of untold wealth," said Maud, rushing up to me with such a vigor as to force me against a sweet-faced girl in a big hat, and to almost crush in the hat. "Where is it?" I asked, looking around. "Why, I mean to say that it isn't in sight, but there are folks who have it in their possession. Why, can't you understand? I want you to look at the unusual number of rich widows who are on the beach. Just look over there at the lady heavily veiled in black, with a charming young lady on each side of her, and a small poodle asleep at her feet. That lady is worth two millions; that's all. Do you see that well-preserved lady with a fine figure—calling to her
